Note:

- When mouse pointer is hovered on course list it is focused and gets highlighted
- Page hit counter is implemented and only increased when page is opened and not when subpages are surfed
- The focus is implemented on the navigation bar as well. The current page with user is viewing is highlighted indicating which page the user is currently on
- Currently the page hit count is stored locally on the RAM and not in a database so the page hit count will be shown as 0 if there is a person viewing for the first time. If the page is opened again by the same user then page count will be increased.
